Showdown slated

GOP opens convention

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — President Ford and Ronald Reagan are personally pursuing the last, scattered handfuls of uncommitted delegates while Republicans open their most divided national convention in a generation.

When Mary Louise Smith, Republican national chairman, calls the party's 31st National Convention to order today it will signal the opening of the final phase of the long, sometimes bitter struggle between an incumbent president never tested in a national election and his brash opponent whose challenge defied conventional political wisdom.

And many of the Republicans gathered here for the showdown fear the outcome will leave the party too divided to withstand the Democratic challenge in the fall campaign.

Few in Kansas City expected the Republicans to duplicate the show of unity and party harmony the Democrats staged last month in New York when they nominated Jimmy Carter for president.

Throughout the preconvention week, strategists for Ford and Reagan probed and tested and sought signs of softness in the delegate totals each was claiming.

Both sides claimed to have more than the 1,130 delegate votes needed for the nomination.

The Associated Press delegate count, based on legal commitments and publicly stated preferences, gave Ford 1,117 and Reagan 1,036, with 105 uncommitted and a single delegate saying he will vote for Sen. James L. Buckley of New York.

The prospect that Buckley, a conservative Republican, might enter the race was the latest imponderable in the tightest GOP nomination race since Dwight Eisenhower and Robert Taft battled in 1952.

Before the balloting begins Wednesday night for the presidential nomination, the candidates will test their delegate strength in several floor fights.

The first significant test should occur Tuesday night when Reagan's backers plan to fight for adoption of a rule that would require each presidential candidate to name his choice for a running mate by Wednesday morning.

Reagan already has said his choice is Sen. Richard S. Schweiker of Pennsylvania.

The vice presidential rule was rejected Sunday by the convention rules committee, but Reagan and his managers said they expected to lose there. The real test, they insist, will come on the convention floor.

John Sears, Reagan's campaign manager, has said repeatedly he believes the former California governor's strength on matters like the proposed rules change is greater than the number of delegates attributed to him in most surveys of intended votes on the first nominating ballot.

Reagan and Ford hit town Sunday and held campaign rallies at about the same hour but miles apart in the convention city.

"I know we are going to win," said Ford.

"Do I think I can still win on the first ballot?" Reagan said to reporters after his arrival. "Yes."

On the eve of the convention, Ford's delegate total increased by seven, Reagan's by three.

But the biggest remaining bloc of uncommitted delegates, the 30-vote Mississippi contingent, continued to resist pressure from both camps to declare its intentions. The Mississippians caucused Sunday night but made no move to abandon their uncommitted status.

Ford picked up four votes in Pennsylvania, two in New York, one in Virginia and one in Kansas. He lost one New York delegate to Buckley.

Ford's gains included three delegates, counted as uncommitted by the AP, who became ill and were unable to attend the convention. All three were replaced by alternates who support Ford.

Reagan picked up two in Pennsylvania and one in Colorado.

Operating from the 18th-floor presidential suite at the Crown Center Hotel, Ford appeared tantalizingly close to victory.

Enter Buckley. The New York senator arrived in Kansas City a few hours after Ford and Reagan and he continued to put off saying whether or not he would enter the race.

"I've just arrived," Buckley told

Voter registration plan hits roadblock

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate Democratic leaders appear to have given up attempts to pass a postcard registration bill that had been urged by the party's presidential candidate, Jimmy Carter.

Postcard voter registration and another controversial bill, calling for the breakup of major oil companies, are missing from a Senate legislative agenda for the rest of the year.

The program listed by the Senate Democratic leadership includes more than a score of major bills to be acted upon after Congress returns Aug. 23 from its recess for the Republican convention. It also shows the order in which they are to be considered, right up to Oct. 2, the target date for adjournment of the present Congress.

A notice sent to all senators by the Democratic whip, Robert C. Byrd of West Virginia, said the schedule is tentative and adds that other measures may be taken up if time permits.

However, failure to include the oil divestiture bill and a House-passed measure to permit voter registration by postcard may be a tipoff the leadership regards them as too controversial to handle in the remaining days of the session.

The oil divestiture bill barely squeaked through the Senate Judiciary Committee by an 8 to 7 vote June 15 and is considered virtually certain to run into an opposition filibuster if brought up in the Senate.

Majority Leader Mike Mansfield, D-Mont., has said that "it would be extremely difficult, if not impossible," to break a filibuster.

Mansfield has declined to commit himself on whether the bill will be called up, although Sen. Birch Bayh, D-Ind., and other sponsors are pressing for action.

The postcard voter registration bill became entangled in a jurisdictional dispute between two Senate committees after it was amended and rushed through the House just before the Republican convention recess. Still to be decided is whether it should be referred to the Rules Committee or the Committee on Post Office and Civil Service.

While supporters say the bill is necessary to make registration easier and increase voter turnout, opponents call it an election-year dirty trick that would open the way for widespread voter fraud.

EXODUS — More than 600 motorcycles assembled at the Union 76 truck stop on U.S. 35 at Interstate 71 Saturday to travel to Columbus for a protest rally. Their mass exodus from the parking lot halted traffic for several minutes and resulted in a mile-long caravan along the highway. Four Ohio Highway Patrol cruisers were settled in the area of the truck stop while a dozen more gathered along the interstate. The bikers were orderly, and there was no problem here. Employes at the truck stop said many had purchased gasoline and were quite friendly.

En route to Columbus for rally

Protesting bikers swarm I-71 truck stop

By GEORGE MALEK

Motorcyclists swarmed Garner's Union 76 truck stop, I-71 and U.S. 35, shortly after 1 p.m. Saturday, and the numbers continued to grow during the next two hours.

By the time the mass moved out for a protest rally in Columbus, more than 600 cycles had assembled on the truck stop lot. Bikers from all over Ohio, an estimated 2,000 in all, converged on the capital city to protest the state law requiring use of helmets.

The first wave of approximately 200 cyclists arrived at the truck stop from Dayton and Springfield. About an hour and a half later another group of larger size arrived from Cincinnati. Along with the stragglers who had arrived in between, the two groups headed north on Interstate 71.

Several vans and pickup trucks accompanied the entourage with spare parts. They also allowed any cyclist who had major difficulty with his bike to load it onto the truck and continue the journey.

Ohio Highway Patrol vehicles did not approach the group at the local truck stop, but they recorded license plate numbers of the vehicles accompanying the bikers.

As the motorcycles assembled at the truck stop left the area, they blocked traffic along U.S. 35 for nearly 10 minutes. With several hundred bikers still in the truck stop lot, the lead vehicles were already making their way onto the interstate highway, nearly a mile away.

Although they had apparently resolved not to wear helmets on the last leg of their journey, the group was halted at the U.S. 62-Interstate 71 interchange, and by that time, most had donned headgear.

Ohio Highway Patrol officers cited many who were in violation of the helmet law, and the mile-long caravan of cyclists was delayed for more than an hour. Some 30 Ohio Highway Patrol vehicles had assembled at the interchange to stop the parade.

Met in Columbus by 1,000 bikers from the northern part of the state, primarily Cleveland and Akron, the group wound up at the Ohio State Fairgrounds where they had been given permission to spend the night.

The scheduled rally at the Statehouse was only partially successful. Some 300 cyclists lounged on the Statehouse lawn drinking soda and beer waiting for the remainder of the group to arrive. Few did so.

Nearly 100 cyclists had been cited for various violations in Columbus, and the remainder were assured of arrest if they continued toward the Statehouse without headgear.

Most departed the state fairgrounds quietly for their homes Sunday.

The bikers theme was "Let those who ride decide." They felt laws requiring use of helmets were an unfair imposition on the cyclist who presented no greater danger to others without the helmet than with it. The purpose of the law is to protect the rider from himself, and they feel this a point each cyclist should decide for himself.

Several of those assembled at the truck stop said the helmets cause more injuries than they prevent. They said the standards for acceptable helmets are so low that they actually offer little protection from head injuries. On the

PROTEST RALLY — Although not all the protesters expressed themselves quite as coarsely as the biker pictured here, their feelings were quite similar. They felt the choice of wearing or not wearing a helmet was that of the rider not the Ohio legislature. In addition, while the photo shows two members of the Iron Horsemen, a motorcycle club from Mount Healthy, a Cincinnati suburb, most of the 600 cycle owners who participated were not members of a cycle club, but individuals who sought to peacefully protest the helmet law.

Game, celebration slated Sept. 18

Preparations begin for annual Offsides benefit grid contest

Preparations have been launched for the third annual Washington C.H. Offsides benefit football game.

The benefit football game, which has been held for the past two years as a fund-raising venture for the Washington C.H. Area Community Education program will be held Saturday, September 18 at Gardner Park Stadium.

Hank Shaffer, director of the Washington C.H. Area Community Education program, said a number of new features have been planned for the third annual event.

The benefit game has raised approximately $5,000 in the past two years for the operation of the Community Education program.

James Francis Patrick O'Neill, the witty WLW-Radio announcer who created the mythical Washington C.H. Offsides team on his early-morning broadcasts from Cincinnati, will once again be in the spotlight along with a number of other WLW-Radio personalities.

O'Neill, who almost daily plugs the team with a perpetual stream of unusual wit as he portrays some of the mythical characters during his radio broadcasts, will be announcing the game from the sidelines.

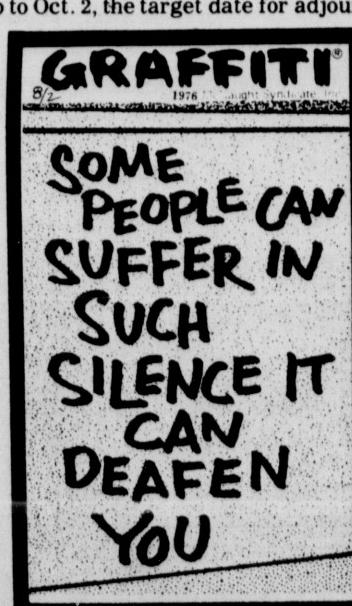

Shaffer said September 18 will be a "big day" in Washington C.H. as a number of other activities are planned in addition to the usual Offsides football game festivities.

The Retail Merchants Association of the Washington C.H. Area Chamber of Commerce is planning a day-long sale to be held in conjunction with the benefit football game and the annual leukemia fund-raising carnival will also be held September 18 at Eyman Park.

In addition to hundreds of area residents expected to be attracted into Washington C.H. by the special sales, the leukemia carnival and the benefit football game, more than 500 Airstream travel trailer owners will converge on Washington C.H. for the annual fall rally of the Wally Byam Caravan Club International, Inc. at the Fayette County Fairgrounds.

Special activities planned for the benefit football game include a South Central Ohio League marching band contest, a pre-game parade starting at 5:30 p.m. through the downtown business district, a bratwurst and cider supper sponsored by the Washington C.H. Optimist Club and a "queen of queens contest."

Surprise for bank robbers

A growing number of banks have a little surprise for people who sample their money at gunpoint. The money is handed over in a bag equipped with a small explosive device, tear gas and red dye - all triggered 30 to 60 seconds after the robbers pass through a beam as they flee from the bank.

One's first impulse is to say: 'Serves them right! That idea stands up well under scrutiny; banks have good cause to play rough with thieves, especially considering that the number of bank robberies has more than triples over the past three years. Second thoughts about the surprise package do come to mind, though.

It is not that the money bags which spew tear gas and red dye are much of a threat to passersby, in themselves. There does seem to be a danger that the surprised bandits may lash out, firing wildly into the crowd. The potential for harm to the innocent must be weighed against the importance or recovering stolen money. Perhaps the exploding money bags are justified - but we'd be better pleased if a less hazardous method could be devised.

Quakes in '76 past and predicted and the Chinas' quaking politics

SAN FRANCISCO — This city by the Golden Gate looks toward the Far Pacific and the Orient. The earthquakes that devastated Northeast China have struck a deep chord of sympathy here where many still living remember that terrifying two days in 1906 when a giant quake followed by fire wiped out the city.

The first major quake that hit Tangshan, Tientsin and Peking in July measures 8.2 on the Richter scale. The San Francisco earthquake was rated

8.25 on that scale. The number of deaths in this city was put at 452.

This is in striking contrast with the estimates out of China, where the government has given out no casualty figures, of the thousands, if not hundreds of thousands, dead.

The tragedy of China comes, as chance would have it, at a particularly unfortunate moment. Peking has been deeply disappointed that normalization of relations with the United States has not progressed.

In the communique signed by President Nixon and Premier Chou en-lai in Shanghai February, 1972, the implied promise was that Washington would move fairly quickly to sever diplomatic ties with the island of Taiwan and establish full relations with the United States.

This would have been in the pattern of Japan and the Western European powers. Instead, Peking and Washington continue to maintain liaison missions. Trade between China and the United States has fallen drastically despite the expectation of a continuing increase.

The government of Chiang Ching-Kuo, son and heir of Chiang Kai-Shek, took the occasion of China's tragedy to gloat over the misfortune of the mainland as evidence that Peking had lost the "mandate of Heaven."

Besides an ambassador and a full diplomatic staff, the United States has 2,500 American troops on the island along with a military aid mission.

With a population of 15,000,000 Taiwan still parrots the claim of Chiang Kai-Shek to re-take the mainland.

During the Olympics, Canada's Prime Minister Pierre Trudeau was responsible for forbidding the Taiwanese to compete as the Republic of China. With this the Taiwanese athletes withdrew. Canada long since had established full diplomatic relations with Peking.

Reports have been current that Peking intends shortly to take Taiwan by military force. These reports were prior to the devastation of the earthquakes, which will inevitably mean a great drain on resources in rebuilding shattered industries and restoring housing that was in short supply before the earthquakes.

Whether military action was contemplated is conjecture. This reporter has learned — again prior to the earthquakes — from high Chinese sources in this country of a possibility that would obviate military conquest. The sequence, to which great credit is given, is as follows:

Chiang Ching-Kuo, age 67, is in poor health. He has diabetes and a serious heart condition. Therefore his life expectancy is short.

When he is gone, the forces that have held together a despotic government under father and son will fall apart. Rebellious groups long undercover will lead a revolt. Their rallying cry will be to rejoin the mainland as part of the real China. This will obviate the use of any military force by Peking.

This may be as insubstantial as the printed reports of military action by Peking. But it is believed by authorities with reason to have intelligence out of Taiwan. The earthquakes and the burden of reconstruction may have put a stop to all plans.

California has a special sympathy for the victims of the kind of disaster that knows neither time nor place.

In 1971 a quake struck in the environs of Los Angeles that did considerable damage. The dead numbered 65.

The Chinese have developed an earthquake prediction to a greater extent than anywhere else. It has been possible to persuade the population of moderate-size cities to leave their homes 24 to 48 hours in advance of a quake.

But this was of no avail in an industrial city of a million such as Tangshan and in the port city of Tientsin. In Peking the population was instructed to camp in parks and streets in fear of further tremors.

Early this year seismologists predicted a severe 1976 earthquake for Southern California somewhere along the San Andreas fault that stretches from south to north.

Heavy casualties were forecast should it occur at the evening rush hour. But even in the construction of supposedly earthquake-proof buildings, Californians have been blithely indifferent to what may or may not come to pass.

In 1826, Cincinnati, the "Queen City of the West," had a population of 16,000, and with 25,000 population in 1830 was the largest city in the west. It boasted of four market houses, ten news papers, two of them dailies; a college and a medical school, three boatyards and several plants for manufacturing flour, liquors and cotton and woolen goods. Meat packing also was becoming an important industry.

Ohio Perspective

Easier laws win backing

By ROBERT E. MILLER
Associated Press Writer

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Some of Ohio's newly enacted laws which make it easier to do such things as drink and gamble are not the handiwork of "flaming liberals" as one might expect.

Instead, they can be traced to what may be a breed of politician who defies a liberal or conservative label. Of those laws that come to mind quickly, three originated with otherwise conservative Republicans, and two were signed by GOP Gov. James A. Rhodes.

Five-term Rep. John A. Galbraith, R-69 Maumee, most recently won approval and Rhodes signed, effective last week, a new state that authorizes the sale of liquor on election day.

Two years ago, Galbraith, who calls himself an "organized conservative," meaning, he said, that he is selective about issues, sponsored a successful bill that repealed Ohio's blue laws.

Dating back to the time when Ohio was part of the Northwest Territory, they banned all but essential sales and business activity on Sunday.

Although his blue law repealer opened department stores and shopping centers on Sunday with legal sanction, the old statutes were not being enforced.

Galbraith said "we have to live with reality," and he pointed out that the removal of outdated statutes from lawbooks is consistent with conservatism because, in effect, it means less government interference and more individual liberty.

The same applied to his election day liquor bill, he said.

Another Republican, former Rep. Richard R. Hollington of Cleveland, was successful in 1969 after a long fight to permit Sunday liquor sales in Ohio. His city helped in the campaign to attract more convention business.

Rhodes, in his nearly 10 years as governor, signed Hollington's bill into law after many conservative politicians predicted a veto. The 66-year-old governor throughout has been conservative on some issues, liberal on others, obviously at times depending on which way the political winds were blowing.

Other recent laws that may be causing Ohio to shed its traditional conservative image made legal abortions possible, established a state lottery, and permitted horse racing on Sunday.

U.S. Rep. Ronald Mottl, D-Ohio, while a member of the Ohio Senate, sponsored the lottery law after the people approved in a statewide referendum. He is rated a conservative among Democrats such as Rep. Arthur Wilkowski, D-46 Toledo, who may be the legislature's strongest liberal.

Wilkowski sponsored the abortion law and the bill that allows horse races on Sunday. Both of those measures were signed into law by former Democratic Gov. John J. Gilligan.

WASHINGTON REPORT

From

WILLIAM H. HARSHA

Representative To Congress

6th District, Ohio

The impact of higher natural gas prices on gas users who must live on fixed incomes seems to be the last consideration of the Federal Power Commission — if indeed it is considered at all.

Faced with stiff opposition in Congress to deregulation of natural gas prices, the Federal Power Commission recently did something of an end run around the legislative process and permitted natural gas producers to hike their prices.

The increase would nearly triple the price of natural gas brought into production since the start of last year. It is estimated that the bonanza for gas producers could result in consumers' paying an additional $1.5 billion in the first year.

The FPC action was immediately challenged in court, and temporarily stayed by a two-judge appeals court panel. However, another panel of three federal judges this week ruled that the enormous increase could be put into effect immediately, so long as the FPC insures that gas producers refund any portions of the new rates subsequently held to be unlawful.

The matter is far from settled since the courts cannot decide on the merits of the FPC price increase until all administrative appeals are exhausted. If an appeal is made, as is almost certain, the Commission will have until September 27 to decide on rehearing the case.

As things now stand, the natural gas industry is still one up on the beleaguered consumer.

Bob Hope raises money for hotel

FREDERICKSBURG, Tex. (AP) — Comedian Bob Hope entertained 15,000 persons at a fairgrounds to raise money to restore an historic hotel.

"Whew, they build those things strong, don't they," Hope said after he needed help this past weekend in wielding a sledgehammer to whack a corner out of the old Nimitz hotel.

The landmark was built by the late Adm. Chester Nimitz' grandfather in 1866, and the Nimitz Commission plans to renovate it to its old "steamboat" appearance.

Before the FPC approved its biggest natural gas price increase ever, producers were allowed to charge about 52 cents per thousand cubic feet of gas sold in interstate commerce.

That refers to gas sold in a state different from the one in which it is found, as is the case with Ohio.

Under the new FPC ruling, however, producers may charge up to $1.42 for gas produced since the end of 1974.

Additionally, the Commission doubled the allowable charge for gas produced between Jan. 1, 1973, and the end of 1974.

The FPC claims that these exorbitant increases are needed to stimulate production of new natural gas sources. According to the Commission the prosperous natural gas industry must be "encouraged" with this bounty to go out and look for more gas.

By its action, however, the FPC is allowing an increase in the price of a substantial amount of gas that has already been discovered and is already being produced.

Not only will that do nothing to stimulate discovery, it will serve to hit the consumer squarely in the pocketbook.

An indirect but significant impact of the price rise is a corresponding rise in the price of goods and services that depend on natural gas for the production process.

The meaning of the Federal Power Commission's arbitrary action is simple enough. Despite an intense and well financed lobbying effort — and with FPC backing — the natural gas industry has thus far failed to get its deregulation plum from Congress. Therefore, it is getting what it can from a predictably generous Federal Power Commission.

With a history of understanding reserves, failure to produce gas when capable, and non-delivery on contracts to pipelines, natural gas producers have damaged their credibility with Congress, and surely to much greater degree, the consuming public.

The Federal Power Commission's pricing decision, if allowed to stand after judicial review, will add $1.5 billion to the national fuel bill.

It will produce only new prices, not new gas. And that means that once again the American consumer will be left holding the bag.

Gold bugs crawling; price drops

By JOHN CUNNIF

AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — Gold bugs, who two years ago were convinced that the price of gold and the size of their fortunes might soar to the heavens, have been crawling of late.

Being an economic rather than zoological creature, the gold bug draws its nourishment from the price of gold, which it believes is the essential repository of value, a safe haven in any economic storm, especially those of inflation.

In December 1974, with inflation and recession pummeling economics of the industrial world, many gold bugs were more confident than ever. Gold sold for $195.20 an ounce, more than five times its 1970 price.

It wasn't uncommon in 1974 to hear the gold bugs speak about an even more lustrous future, not at $200 an ounce but at $300 and even more. Paper money was more suspect every day; gold was solid.

Gold sold for $113.30 in New York Friday, and some analysts familiar with the market were forecasting even lower prices, perhaps much lower.

While some of the gold bugs picked up their ounces at $40 or so several years ago, a good many of them paid several times that figure and now have either no gains or substantial losses.

All this, combined with sales by the

In addition to the quoted price, many buyers also paid an agent's fee, an assay fee and perhaps a storage fee. And they received no interest in return.

Problems for the gold bugs began soon after, or even slightly before, U.S. citizens were permitted to buy bullion at the beginning of 1975. The entrance of U.S. citizens into the market was expected to be bullish. It wasn't.

At the time inflation was raging throughout the world, and that of course was considered a boost for gold prices. Whereas paper money, losing its value, sometimes is refused, gold seldom is.

The observations of the gold bugs were correct but their forecasts of even worse inflation weren't. Gradually inflation began to lose momentum and, while stability is still a distance off, people regained some confidence.

The lessened role of gold as backing for currencies contributed further to the decline. The relative value of international currencies, rather than being pegged to gold, were permitted to float against each other.

Central bank members of the International Monetary Fund agreed not to increase their total gold holdings. And the fund began a four-year program to auction off some of its holdings.

Each of the courses may be taken for three semester hours of graduate or undergraduate credit. Graduate credit may be used in a degree program, for upgrading certification, or as applied credit for salary increments.

Registration and fee payment will take place at the first class meeting. Applications to the Miami University graduate school will be available at that time.

All classes will be held in Jefferson

Cheryl Ann Lake, daughter of Mrs. Hilma Lake, of Fairfield, California, and John M. Pero, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Pero, Snow Hill Road, were recently married at the base chapel, More Island Naval Base, Vallejo, Calif.

Mr. Pero is a graduate of Miami Trace High School and is an instructor at Combat Systems Technical Schools Command, More Island, Calif. They are residing at 708 Wilson Avenue, Vallejo, Calif.

BPW to hear Mr. Anderson

The Civic Participation Committee, co-chaired by Mrs. Jane Bolton and Mrs. Joyce Fields, will be the hostess committee for the August 24th dinner meeting of the Washington C.H. Business and Professional Women's Club.

The guest speaker for the evening will be "Andy" Anderson. Anderson is the plant manager of Diamond International Corp., Calmar Division. He joined Calmar on the west coast in 1969 and served as the division's plant engineer at the Calmar city of Industry, Calif., facility before coming to Ohio. Active in civic affairs, he served as councilman, vice-mayor, and mayor of Lomita, Calif. Anderson was featured in a cover story in the February 5, 1976, issue of Plant Engineering magazine.

A tour of Calmar is planned immediately following the dinner meeting.

Have tote will travel

The best season is yet to come. With plenty of sensational weather, there's football, biking, hiking and fall foliage to enjoy. Californians, Arizonians, Georgians, New Englanders and even New Yorkers, favor the late, great picnics and concerts in the park. Take your tote bag and travel. We've used one, a great picnic tote, that comes with its own stacked tins. You can cook in them ahead of time, cool them, stack them, pack them, then load in the car or even on the back of the bike.

But you never thought you could make a fish and macaroni shell salad from a canned pasta, did you? Here's the secret: the pasta comes in its own tomato sauce, so by just adding some mayonnaise, sour cream and vinegar, the sauce takes on a Russian accent. Now you've got pasta shells in a zippy Russian dressing; add some shrimp or tuna and presto, there's a wonderful hearty supper salad.

California cling peach halves makes desserts for "all seasons". We've made an old-fashioned cobbler type; it's not too sweet and just right when served with a dollop of whipped cream.

Don't forget the beverage... since there'll be a nip in the air, we've chosen Viennese coffee. Carry it in the thermos... whip the cream before you go... then spoon it on lavishly.

MACARONI SHELL SALAD A'LA RUSSE

2 cans (15 ounce) Chef Boy-Ar-Dee macaroni shells
1/2 cup mayonnaise
1 medium onion, grated
1 tablespoon chopped fresh dill or 1/2 teaspoon dried dill weed
1/2 pound shrimp, cooked, shelled and chopped, or 1 can (7 1/2 ounce) tuna, flaked

1 cup chopped celery
1/4 cup dairy sour cream
1 tablespoon vinegar
2 teaspoons sugar

Pour macaroni shells into medium-size bowl. Add remaining ingredients, chill for at least one hour.

Toting a bag lunch is an everyday activity for many of us. Here's a welcome menu variation in any of the following recipes.

SALAD GIARDINERE

1/2 cup sliced onion
1/2 small head cauliflower, broken in flowerets
1 cup fresh zucchini, sliced
2 carrots, sliced
2 stalks celery, sliced
1 jar (3 ounce) small black olives
3/4 cup wine vinegar
1/2 cup olive oil
2 tablespoons sugar
1 package G. Washington's Golden Seasoning and Broth

1/2 teaspoon basil

Blanch onion, cauliflower, zucchini, carrots and celery in boiling water for three minutes. Drain well. Toss remaining ingredients. Store in covered container in your refrigerator. Similar to a relish, this unusual salad will keep for days. Serve in lettuce cups and top with Creamy Salad Dressing.

CREAMY SALAD DRESSING

3 tablespoons sour cream
1/2 cup mayonnaise
6 tablespoons salad oil
1/4 cup white wine vinegar
1 teaspoon prepared mustard
1/8 teaspoon salt
1/8 teaspoon pepper

In a small bowl or wide-mouthed jar with top, combine all ingredients and whisk or shake until well blended. Refrigerate. Makes about 3/4 cup.

ALL SEASON BEEFARONI PASTA SALAD

1/2 cup chopped green pepper
1/2 cup chopped onion
1 cup sliced celery
1 can (6 ounce) luncheon meat, cubed
2 tablespoons butter
2 cans (15 ounce each) Chef Boy-Dee Beefaroni

1 cup shredded cheddar cheese
1 package (10 ounce) frozen green peas, cooked, drained

1/4 cup sliced olives (optional)
Sauté green pepper, onion, celery and meat in butter. Add Beefaroni, cheese, peas and olives. Simmer five minutes. Serve hot or cold. Serves 6 or 8.

Fayette County Auxiliary meets at Legion Hall

Surpassing the 1976 membership was the goal set as members of Fayette County Auxiliary No 2291, Veterans of World War I, met for their regular meeting at the American Legion Hall. Mrs. Cloyce Copley, president, alerted the group to the department's president's theme for 1977, "Working together for World War I Buddies and Sisters". The membership drive officially gets underway October 1.

Conducting ritualistic services were Mrs. Eunice Draper, conductress pro tem, and Mrs. Nellie Kennedy, chaplain pro tem. The pledge of allegiance followed.

After hearing the usual reports and reading of communications, General Orders No 11 were presented by the secretary, Mrs. Clarence Hackett. Round robin cards were circulated and signed for shut-ins. Birthdays recognized for the month were those of Mrs. Kennedy and Mrs. Edna Woodmansee.

Members were briefed on the July district meeting held in Gahanna attended by Mrs. Copley, Mrs. Draper and Mrs. Allen Sells. Well represented was each group making up District 7.

Speaking as legislative chairman, Mrs. Sells pointed out that unless the two Houses of Congress come to an agreement on veteran's legislation by Labor Day, benefits will be cut for 2,200,000 pensioners and DIC beneficiaries and some 43,000 would have their pensions wiped out. The WW I veteran's contention that some recompense be allotted in part to balance the gigantic sums bestowed on WW II and later veterans.

Mrs. Sells also called attention to the fact that time is running short for action and that a crucial threat arises from the Senate's last year of an eight per cent increase in pension rate and $300 additional in income which legislation specified that the law would expire on September 30, 1976.

A measure strongly supported by the National Commander, Louis Zaruba, as announced in a bulletin from the National Legislative Director, is H.R. 14298, which carries special provisions benefiting WW I veterans, is drawing by 25 per cent.

Concluding her remarks, Mrs. Sells urged a greater united front in pressing the Senate Veterans' Affairs Committee to action if results are to be achieved.

Mrs. Hackett, as Americanism chairman, read the "Oath of Naturalized Citizens," which depicts the pledge of the foreign-born to hold most precious and sacred his American citizenship.

Following the closing ceremonies, members adjourned. The auxiliary will meet next on September 29.

Bishop's celebrate their 50th wedding anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Robert E. Bishop, of 3218 Yeoman Road, celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary recently. The former Faith Yeoman and Robert Bishop were married at the bride's home, on the Yeoman Road, by the bride's great uncle, Elder Walter Yeoman, on August 15, 1926.

They are the parents of two children, Marilyn Martin, of Clarksburg, and Larry Bishop, of Washington C.H., and the grandparents of four, and the great-grandparents of one. Mr. and Mrs. Bishop were the recipients of several gifts and many good wishes.

On the day of the Bishop's anniversary, the entire family attended the morning worship service at the Yeoman Road.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert E. Bishop, of 3218 Yeoman Road, celebrated the occasion of their 50th wedding anniversary with a trip to Hawaii where they visited all four main islands with the Colleen Sharp tour. They were accompanied on the tour by Mr. and Mrs. J. Estle Steele, also of the Yeoman Road.

Garden Club tours Harford Renick's property

For the August meeting of the Fayette Garden Club, 24 members and guests spent a most delightful day at Wardell's Party Home, where they met for a noon luncheon.

After the meal, Mrs. Edwin Thompson, presided over a short business meeting. The secretary and treasurer gave their reports, cards were signed for members who are shut-ins and several thank-you notes were read from participants who won prizes in the bicentennial mail box contest.

Mrs. O.S. Kelley reminded members of the trip to Shakertown, Ky., on September 28 and 29, and stated that reservations should be in by August 15.

Mrs. Willard Bitzer gave a brief resume of the President's Council, which she attended and urged all members to participate in the Fayette County Conservation Wildlife Week, beginning September 25. It will be held at the Washington Square Shopping Center and each garden club members is asked to make an arrangement.

After the meeting, the group motored to the gardens of Harford Renick, who lives near Circleville. His home is located on a hillside, far from the road, and flowers surround the entire property. Renick's display of flowers included huge beds of geraniums, coleus, impatiens, wax begonias, tuberous begonias, sultanas, lavender and purple heliotrope and zinnias. All along the fence, huge blooms of hibiscus, shading from red to deep rose and pink, were in full bloom, with blue morning glories climbing along the fences.

Hanging baskets, containing flowering vines, hung at vantage points on the patio and in the basement, african violets, of every color, were flourishing.

Members and guests enjoying this outing were Mrs. G.E. Bidwell, Mrs. Willard Bitzer, Mrs. Kenneth Bush, Mrs. Orville Bush, Ms. Norma Dodd, Mrs. A.L. Fishback, Mrs. Joe Fortier, Mrs. Homer Garringer, Mrs. P.C. Harlow, Ms. Dorothy Donahoe, Mrs. Orville Jenkins, Mrs. C.S. Kelley, Mrs. Larry Lehman, Mrs. Wash Lough, Mrs. Maryon Mark, Mrs. Robert Merriweather, Ms. Susie Merriweather, Mrs. George Stitt, Mrs. Edwin Thompson, Mrs. Bennie Jamison, Mrs. Walter Thompson and Mrs. Wilmah Hastings.

The September meeting will be held in the home of Mrs. John Jordan with assisting hostesses, Mrs. Kenneth Craig and Mrs. Herbert Wilson.

Stage producer Charles Froham, 1860-1915, was born in Sandusky, Ohio.

James Kilbourne brought 100 settlers from Connecticut in 1803 to begin the town of Worthington, then 10 miles up the Olentangy River from Columbus.

After the War of 1812 Ohio spawned villages like mushrooms, but since some were the product of land speculators not all were real enough to become settled. Printed notices of new townsites greeted strangers in most of the established communities, but some of the towns advertised never became a reality.

Vivaldi Gloria in rehearsal

The Fayette County Choral Society will meet at 8 p.m. on Monday, August 23, in the First Presbyterian Church, to begin preparation for a November 21st concert.

Under the direction of W. Warren Parker, a member of the Miami University music faculty, those interested in participating in the concert, will begin rehearsal of a major choral work, "Gloria" by Antonia Vivaldi, an 18th century Venetian composer. This work consists of choruses and solos which will provide an opportunity for Fayette Countians, who are vocally talented, to be heard at their best. Twentieth-century music will be included in the November program.

The Choral Society seeks to study and perform a wealth of offerings from the world of choral composition. All singers are invited to participate.

EASY DINNER
Judy's Pot Roast
Paprika Noodles

Broccoli Salad Rolls
Fresh Peach Compote

JUDY'S POT ROAST
It's made in a slow-cooker.
3-pound chuck beef for pot roast

1 teaspoon salt
1/4 teaspoon pepper
2 teaspoons dried dillweed
1/4 cup dry red wine
1 tablespoon red wine vinegar
1 cup sour cream
3 tablespoons flour blended with 3 tablespoons water

Rub a mixture of the salt, pepper and 1 teaspoon of the dillweed over the beef; place in an electric slow-cooker. Stir together the wine and vinegar and add. Cook, covered, on low until tender — about 9 hours. Remove beef. Pour hot meat juice in slow cooker — there will be a generous pintful — into a 10-inch skillet. Gradually stir sour cream into flour-water mixture, keeping smooth; stir into skillet with remaining dillweed; cook gently, stirring constantly, until thickened and boiling. Slice meat thin (this is easiest to do if it is chilled); add to sauce and reheat. Serve with noodles. Makes 6 servings.

One of the best known monuments in Ohio is the "My Jewels" monument on the capitol grounds in Columbus, a bronze statue on a granite pedestal. Figures of Grant, Sherman, Sheridan, Stanton, Garfield, Chase and Hayes, Ohio soldiers and statesmen, surround the shaft topped by a statue of the Roman mother, Cornelia whose words, "These are my jewels" stand out in relief at the top of the shaft.

The monument is the work of Levi T. Schofield and was first exhibited at the World Columbian Exposition in Chicago in 1893.

Rev. Puffenberger named to church pastor's post

Rev. Allen L. Puffenberger, associate pastor at Grace United Methodist Church in Washington C.H. for the past four years, has been appointed by Bishop F. Gerald Ensley to the position of pastor at the Hope United Methodist Church in Canal Winchester, Ohio.

Rev. Puffenberger, who came to Washington C.H. in February of 1972, will assume the position in the Columbus suburb effective September 12.

The Hope United Methodist has a total of 250 persons in its congregation. Canal Winchester has a population of 2,489 persons.

The 35-year-old Rev. Puffenberger will be succeeding Rev. Charles Muller as the Canal Winchester church pastor. Rev. Muller has served as the pastor for three years and is leaving to accept a teaching post.

The appointment of Rev. Puffenberger to the new position will be one of the last by Bishop Ensley, who is retiring August 31 after 24 years as a bishop and more than 40 years in the ministry. Bishop Ensley is being succeeded by Dwight E. Loder, who has spent the past 12 years as an episcopal leader in the Michigan area.

Rev. Puffenberger, 812 Broadway St., who serves as a district coordinator of youth ministries for the Methodist Church, said he has some mixed feelings about the new position.

"My ministry here has been the most satisfying and productive one I've had. I have some sad feelings about leaving the Washington C.H. community, but I'm looking forward to the new challenges ahead," he said.

A native of Luray, W. Va., Rev.

REV. PUFFENBERGER

Puffenberger received a bachelor of arts degree from the University of Richmond in Richmond, Va., after achieving intermediate honors. He is a member of the Phi Beta Kappa scholastic honorary society. He received his bachelor of divinity degree from the Divinity School of Duke University in 1966.

He formerly served as minister of education at Trinity Methodist Church in Columbus.

Rev. Puffenberger and his wife, Martha, have three children, Mark, 8; Angela, 5, and one-year-old Erik.

Rev. T. Mark Dove serves as pastor of the Grace United Methodist Church in Washington C.H.

Rhodes ends support of Connally

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — Ohio Gov. James A. Rhodes says he no longer is promoting John Connally for the Republican vice presidential nomination because of questions raised about the prospective Connally candidacy.

"I don't have any particular choice" for vice president now, Rhodes said, but added that he still considers Connally as perhaps the strongest campaigner the Republicans could put before the voters in November.

Rhodes has promoted the former Texas governor, a relative newcomer to the Republican party, among Ohio delegates.

Among those raising the questions were several republican members of the House Judiciary Committee, which heard White House tapes involving Connally during its consideration of articles of impeachment against former president Richard M. Nixon.

Rhodes said Connally has been hurt by the discussion, and blamed "a studied plot" by unknown persons.

Rhodes arrived in Kansas City on Sunday to join the 97-member Ohio delegation to the Republican National Convention.

He planned to leave the convention today for meetings in Washington with two Japanese auto manufacturers who he said are thinking of locating plants in Ohio.

He said he will meet Tuesday morning in Columbus with federal officials to discuss the state's financially-troubled Medicaid system before returning to Kansas City for the Tuesday night session.

Ohio, with its diverse population origins in its early days, presented the greatest variety in architecture. As early as 1803 Marietta could boast of one home "architecturally pretentious enough to be labeled Georgian." A fine example of the early Republican or Federal architecture was the Taft House built in Cincinnati about 1820.

Big Friday crowd attends gun show

The Central Ohio Gun and Indian Relic Collectors Association had the biggest Friday crowd ever for a gun show and flea market this weekend.

The event held at the Fayette County Fairgrounds was filmed by WBNS-TV, Columbus, and aired on the 6 p.m. news Friday.

Kenneth Craig, association president, said some 560 exhibitors flooded the fairgrounds when the gates opened at noon Friday. They quickly swarmed the grounds, and a few gave up in frustration and left when they could not find a spot to display their wares.

Weather hampered both attendance and revenue Saturday and Sunday. However, the gate receipts for those two days are deceiving, Craig said.

Hirohito notes war surrender

TOKYO (AP) — "My heart still pains when I think of those who perished in the war," Emperor Hirohito said at a prayer ceremony marking the 31st anniversary of the end of World War II.

"On this occasion I pray for world peace and prosperity ... to console them," he said.

About 1,000 political and business leaders, and 5,000 relatives of war dead attended the nationally televised memorial Sunday at Tokyo's Martial Arts Hall and stood for a moment of silent prayer at an altar banked with yellow and white chrysanthemums.

Hirohito, now 75, announced Japan's acceptance of the Potsdam Declaration ending hostilities on Aug. 15, 1945.

Many cars entered free because they had bought three-day exhibitors tickets on Friday.

He estimated 4,000 cars entered the gates during the three-day show.

The competition this weekend was for the best cap and ball Remington revolver. A Huntington, W. Va., man took top honors with a .44-caliber military revolver used during the Civil War. A Fayette County man placed second in the competition. He entered a .31-caliber pocket-sized Remington.

Craig said the Remington cap and ball revolvers were popular for about 20 years at the time of the Civil War. They were discarded when cartridge revolvers were introduced.

The next show will be held at the Fayette County Fairgrounds Sept. 4 and 5. The competition will be for the best Folsom point Indian arrowhead.

Craig said the genuine Folsom point is only found in the southwestern United States, but a few Ohio tribes made a very similar arrowhead which will be accepted in the competition.

AFBF chief raps OSHA

VAN WERT, Ohio (AP) — The president of the American Farm Bureau Federation spoke in Ohio last week, sounding a familiar theme: too much government intervention in agriculture.

The government has to create a marketing climate that does not put roadblocks between farmers and a good farming future, according to Allen Grant.

Grant considers a federal grain reserve proposal called "Storehouse of Food," to be presented next year by corn belt Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey, D-Minn., among those roadblocks.

Reserves are "the heart of most farm programs, built around a 'cheap food' policy," Grant said.

"Grain reserves disrupt and depress the farmers' market and create the illusion that food is cheap by transferring part of the cost to taxpayers," he said.

Grant sees only political motives behind the establishment of grain reserves.

"All of us that are in business, whether its agriculture or any other business, are overregulated at the present time," Grant said. He added, "It seems to me that when we have to have the Occupational Safety and Health Act telling us that manure is slippery if you step on it in a cow barn floor, we're just going a little too far with regulation," Grant said.

Ebenezer Zane, who built Zane's Trace under 1796 Congressional bill, completed the rough road from the Ohio River opposite Wheeling across the Ohio River, to Maysville, Ky. Then with his partner McIntyre, laid out the village of Zanesville in 1799 at the juncture of the Licking and Muskingum Rivers. The town was first called Westbourne.

TV Viewing

altogether whenever it feels a breaking convention story requires live television coverage.

ABC calls its mixture of abbreviated convention coverage and entertainment an alternative form of viewing for a nation offered gavel-to-gavel convention coverage by the two other networks.

The mixture worked well during the week of the extraordinarily dull Democratic convention. Then, boosted by an audience of nearly 18.9 million homes watching its July 13 AllStar baseball coverage, ABC emerged No. 1 in the week's average ratings for nightly shows.

No such All-Star aid is afoot on this go-around. And it'll be interesting to see if more viewers are attracted to the CBS-NBC coverage of the Ford-Reagan battle than ABC's mixed bag of goodies.

Met pitching stymies Reds

By KEN RAPPORST
AP Sports Writer

Jerry Koosman is starting to feel like Tom Seaver. In fact, he's starting to look like him.

A second fiddle to the three-time Cy Young winner over the years, the veteran left-hander has become the exclamation point of the New York

Mets' pitching staff this season.

"Koosman is, I think, the best left-hander in the National League," said New York Manager Joe Frazier after the southpaw shut out the Cincinnati Reds 1-0 five hits Sunday. "He is really tough right now. He has got it all together. He just wants the ball and wants to pitch. He said he could have gone another three innings."

Koosman, an exuberant 33-year-old who never has reached the prestigious 20-victory circle, is well on his way toward it this year.

Koosman added this postscript after improving his record to 15-7 and his earned run average to 3.02: "I never felt better. I was in command all the way."

In the other National League games, the San Francisco Giants whopped the Philadelphia Phillies 9-5; the San Diego Padres stopped the Montreal Expos 6-1; the Atlanta Braves edged the St. Louis Cardinals 3-2; the Los Angeles Dodgers defeated the Chicago Cubs 3-2 and the Pittsburgh Pirates took a doubleheader from the Houston Astros, 8-6 and 3-0.

Koosman struck out 11 and raised his season total to 138 while recording his second shutout of the year. The southpaw, winning his fourth straight game, has lost only once in his last 10 decisions.

Gary Nolan, 10-8, was the losing pitcher for the Reds, who were beaten for only the 11th time in their last 41 games. New York has won nine of its last 12 games and finished the season with a 6-6 record against Cincinnati.

Giants 9, Phils 5

Darrell Evans belted his 10th and 11th home runs of the year, the latter a three-run shot in the top of the ninth inning, to power San Francisco over Philadelphia. Evans' homer capped a five-run rally that brought the Giants back from a 5-4 deficit. His solo blast in the sixth had given the Giants a 4-3 lead but Greg Luzinski's tworun shot in the eighth, his 17th homer, put the Phillies ahead.

Padres 6, Expos 1

Two-run singles by Willie Davis and Ted Kubiak highlighted a five-run sixth inning and carried San Diego over Montreal. Montreal starter Don Carrithers, who had given up just one hit through the first five innings, surrendered the San Diego runs. Tom Griffin scattered six hits to improve his record to 7-4.

Braves 3, Cardinals 2

Phil Niekro hurled a six-hitter and knocked in a run in the second inning as Atlanta defeated St. Louis. Dave May and Rob Bellor opened the Braves' second with consecutive singles before Vic Correll walked, loading the bases with nobody out. Niekro 13-8, drilled a sacrifice fly to center, and moments later Bellor scored on a squeeze bunt single by Darrel Chaney.

The Braves scored their eventual winning run in the eighth inning when Rod Gilbreath tripled and scored on Tom Paciorek's sacrifice fly.

Dodgers 3, Cubs 2

Bill Bonham's costly balk let in a run and set up another in a three-run fourth inning which gave Los Angeles its victory over Chicago. With one out in the fourth, Bonham walked Bill Buckner and Steve Garvey. Ron Cey followed with a runscoring single before Bonham balked, allowing Garvey to score and putting Cey on second. Bill Russell followed with a run-scoring single.

Pirates 8-3, Astros 6-0

Ed Kirkpatrick's two-run double keyed a decisive four-run rally in the ninth and reliever Kent Tekulve put down a Houston uprising in the bottom half of the inning as Pittsburgh whipped the Astros in the first game of their doubleheader. The Pirates won the second game behind Jerry Reuss' six-hitter.

RESULTS

Dodgers — Allen Willoughby, 40-2;

Third straight national title?

Sooner coach less than optimistic about chances

NORMAN, OKLA. (AP) — Oklahoma may have won back-to-back national championships, but Coach Barry Switzer and crew aren't having illusions of continued grandeur heading into the 1975 college football campaign.

No team has ever won three straight national titles, and the Sooners don't figure to either — on paper, that is.

But make no mistake, the Sooners will be a very good football team and they'll be in the thick of the Big Eight title race.

And they may have something to say concerning who wins the mythical national championship since their schedule includes such powers as Texas, Nebraska and California.

The Oklahoma wishbone is expected to roll on, despite the graduation of quarterback Steve Davis, running star Joe Washington and the split end tandem of Tinker Owens and Billy Brooks.

But the defense, beset by injuries in the spring, faces the critical problem of replacing the All-American trio of tackle Leroy Selmon, noseguard Dewey Selmon and end Jimbo Elrod.

"I think we'll be a good team, but remember that those other people we play against will be good, too ... I'd feel a lot better about the situation if we hadn't suffered all those injuries last spring," said Switzer.

Among the top four interior defensive line prospects, only sophomore noseguard Reggie Kinlaw was healthy during the spring. Injured were tackles Anthony Bryant, a starter last year, soph Phil Tabor and Richard Murray, who also is in the noseguard picture.

Bright spots are the return of linebackers Bill Dalke and Daryl Hunt and a secondary anchored by cornerback Jerry Anderson and Zac Henderson that could be the best in Sooner history.

Offensively, the Sooners will be led by Dean Blevins, a junior with speed and plenty of savvy, backed up by sophomore Thomas Lott.

Proven performers include halfbacks Horace Ivory and Elvin Peacock and fullback Jim Culbeth. Soph Kenny King was a sensation in the spring at fullback, but could be moved back to halfback if George Cumby, a redshirt, lives up to expectations. Also competing for playing time will be Billy Sims, the heralded sophomore from Hooks, Tex., Woodie Shepherd and Jimmy Rogers, all halfbacks.

"We should be a good offensive team," says Switzer. "Dean Blevins and Thomas Lott will improve with time. Our running backs are good. Victor Hicks (a sophomore) will be one of the best tight ends in the Big Eight. He has really improved since last year."

Miller wins WCC championship

Fifty-year-old Roger Miller playing in his first Washington Country Club Senior Championship edged defending champion Robert Hagerty by one stroke to win the title Sunday.

Sunday's rain made the course play long and Miller shot rounds of 40 and 37 to finish with a 77. Hagerty shot a 78. William Mount finished third with a 79 followed by Harris Willis and William Friece with 81s. William Rine carded an 83 while Howard Miller and Charles Cummings tied with 84s. John Wylie was close behind with an 85.

The senior championship event is for golfers 50 or older.

Loren Noble fired an 86 and, with his 18 handicap, won the handicap division with a 68.

Both scratch and handicap winners will receive trophies.

Other net scores follow:

69 — William Mount, John Wylie, Robert Hagerty.

70 — William Stoughton, Talmadge Taylor.

71 — H.R. Heckaman, Charles Cummings.

72 — John Armbrust.

74 — George Walker, Joseph Herbert.

75 — Paul Maughmer, Warren Pollock.

76 — Charles Griffith, Everett Rudolph, Howard Mann, Harry Townsend.

77 — Charles Callender.

78 — John Arbogast, Ernest Stanforth, Ralph Hyer, Bernham Light.

80 — Donald Crabtree, Ralph Douglass.

81 — Bernard Eiselstein, Paul Rodentels.

82 — Herbert Sollars.

83 — Gene Hatfield.

84 — O.E. Price.

Thursday a mixed scramble event will be held at 6:30 p.m. followed by a mixed 18-hole scramble on Sunday.

Bowling meeting set

An important organizational meeting for the Thursday night industrial bowling league will be held at 7:30 p.m. Thursday at Bowland Lanes.

Coody holds two-stroke lead

Rain again stops PGA tourney

BETHESDA, Md. (AP) — Pro golfers raised a clamor for a firm rain policy as the 58th PGA Championship went into a fifth-day overtime today with former Masters champion Charles Coody holding a two-stroke lead over Jack Nicklaus and the unsung golfing optometrist, Dr. Gil Morgan.

"I always have felt that if there was just one man left on the course the entire round should be replayed," argued Arnold Palmer. "That is the purist's view, but I have to admit that television and other things have to be taken into account."

"I am not arguing either way," said Tom Weiskopf. "All I am saying is that we should count no matter what the circumstances," insisted the 39-year-old Coody, whose two-day, rain-interrupted 67 for the third round put him in command position with a 207 — three under par.

It is an argument that is bound to continue to boil — among golf officials, television brass and spectators as well as players — long after the $45,000 first prize in this tournament has been decided.

Swimming mark set

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Jonty Skinner, the new world record holder in the 100-meter free-style, always had the fantasies that all swimmers get.

"I'd be in bed and I'd lie there," the 22-year-old South African said. "I'd dream, 'All you have to do is go out in 24.3 and come back in 25.6.' I just went out a little faster."

Opening lead — ace of hearts.

This deal was played in the U.S.-Italy match during the First World Olympiad staged in Turin in 1960.

At the first table, Belladonna, South for Italy, playing with Avarelli, got to four spades doubled. The play followed exactly the same pattern until trick seven, when West returned the two of clubs, not the five.

It was a fine choice of plays. The U.S. declarer also took the ten and cashed two trumps, aiming for a squeeze, but it did him no good. He had to go down two — 500 points — because West's thoughtful return of his five to stand guard over South's four and East could later safely discard his nine.

Belladonna won in dummy with the jack and led the jack of

The Tragedy of Emphysema

Is emphysema always caused by smoking cigarettes? If not, why is so much pressure being put on us smokers to deprive us of one of the few pleasures left in life? A friend of mine had emphysema and the doctors insist it was because of his smoking. — Mr. T. H., Calif.

Dear Mr. H.:

No, tobacco is not the only cause of emphysema. But it undoubtedly is the most important cause for this serious lung condition.

Asthma, chronic bronchitis, dust, molds and chronic irritation by chemical fumes are some of the other possible causes of emphysema.

The fact that there are other causes should not mislead you into believing that tobacco is not the culprit that it is.

Emphysema is a physical condition in which the tiny air sacs in the lung lose their elasticity. The result is that air, with its vital oxygen, is trapped in these sacs and cannot easily be emptied during inhaling and exhaling.

As part of an educational program, I took a group of adults into a hospital and allowed them to see the desperate end results in emphysematous patients who were far too young to be dying of this disease.

I must add that it is indeed sad that you have not found the myriad joys and pleasures in living removed from the single "pleasure" of overindulgence in tobacco.

Why do adults have to be bothered by so-called protective medicine bottles? If they are meant to save children from getting into them, why must we be bothered with them? — Mr. S. K. N. J.

Dear Mr. K.:

Child-resistant medicine bottles have been responsible for reducing fatalities in children, especially those who are tempted by good-tasting "candy medicines." Safety caps have also been responsible for the saving of some adult lives. Many people who are "half-asleep" when they seek out a medicine in the cabinet find that they may have swallowed a drug that they were not looking for.

THE BETTER HALF By BarnesHocking County fears continue

LOGAN, Ohio (AP) — Ever since a bullet crashed through the window of his car late one night this month, Doug Hoyd has been taking a different road home from his job at Mace's grocery here.

He says he isn't sure who was responsible for the shooting the night of Aug. 2. "It could have been anybody."

But that doesn't mean, Hoyd says, he is ruling out a tie between the shooting and a series of animal mutilations in this small town and surrounding Hocking County—an area dotted with small villages tucked among gentle hills.

"I was on my way to mom's house to pick up my wife that night, when I saw two flashes from the end of a rifle. It was about 100 yards down the road on a bank. I slowed down and that's when a third shot came through the windshield," Hoyd recalled.

The shooting occurred at the top of a hill where the narrow road descends into the village of Union Furnace. Hoyd's mother lives at the bottom of the hill.

"I drove fast past where the shots came from and didn't stop until I got to mom's house."

Hoyd has a 4-year-old son and infant daughter. He lives in Haydenville, just six miles east of Logan and when he got home with his wife that night "She told me at first I wasn't coming in. She said somebody's going to get hurt bad."

Hoyd said he thinks the shooting might have been in reaction to vigilante activities in the county. Some local CB radio operators have been chasing people through the countryside at night, hoping, they say to catch those responsible for the animal mutilations.

"Now, I'm not saying I'm one of those vigilantes," Hoyd cautions.

But he does say something has to be done, and that he and others wonder if the local law enforcement agencies can stop the craze.

"It took the local law 25 to 30 minutes to get there after I called about the shooting," he said.

Hoyd and many residents of Hocking County are on edge because of the series of mutilations that began May 27. Since then 11 animals have been mutilated according to reports filed with the Logan police and Hocking County sheriff.

J.W. Riddlebarger lost his 6-year-old pet female llama to the craze. Riddlebarger says someone punctured the animal's abdominal cavity and her intestines seeped through.

"She was pregnant and I just thought she was having a miscarriage at first," Riddlebarger said.

He still has a male llama and said he no longer leaves the animal in his barn at night.

"He has a better chance in the open. He can run if he's free and these hoodlums return."

Riddlebarger says the mutilated female was in a 10 by 10 foot stall in the barn and was unable to escape.

A family north of Logan lost a steer to the mutilators. It was castrated. The William Sickles' lost several pet rabbits. Their heads and feet were cut off. JoAnn Sickles says she isn't sure the dead rabbits were the work of the mutilators. It could have been dogs, she says. Mac McHone of rural Logan lost some pigs and a horse.

Both Hocking County Sheriff Paul Hartman and Logan Police Chief James Thompson have issued statements telling frightened residents not to believe the rumor that the mutilations are the work of a group of religious cultists roaming the hills at night, burning fires and wearing black robes and hoods.

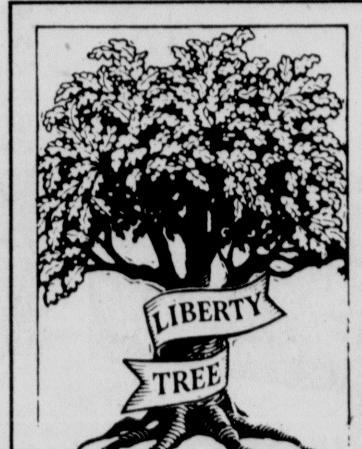

A joint statement several days ago also reminded people that there has been no harm done to humans.

Hoyd might agree he has not been harmed but he isn't sure someone didn't try.

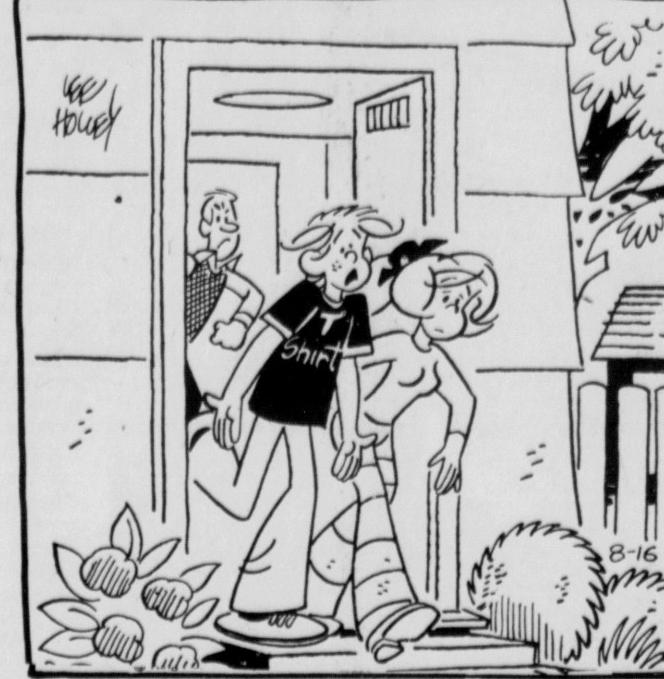

By 1799 when Dayton was a cluster of nine cabins, a blockhouse which served as a school, a distillery, sawmill, lime kiln and a Presbyterian Church, the first cargo of grain, pelts and 500 venison hams moved down the Miami River bound for Cincinnati and the new Orleans market.

GAS EXPLOSION — Fayette County sheriff's deputies said internal gas explosion along U.S. 35-N. this trailer exploded and collapsed Saturday after an in-

Gas explosion collapses trailer

A gas explosion in a tractor trailer rig which had been northwest bound on U.S. 35 NW Saturday, blew apart and collapsed the trailer portion about a half mile west of the Inskip Road intersection.

The driver of the rig, Larry D. Steele, of Cincinnati, was not injured, though the trailer was demolished, and gas containers in the wreck had to be removed with care afterwards.

Fayette County sheriff's deputies reported that a leak in one of twelve canisters containing an acetone based adhesive in the trailer caused solvent vapors to explode at 11:37 a.m. Saturday.

Deputy Robert Russell said that after the vapors had dispersed following the explosions, only slight fire damage occurred. However, members of the Jefferson Township Volunteer Fire Department were summoned to the scene on stand-by alert.

There was no damage to the trailer, and the remaining canisters were loaded aboard another tractor trailer rig which had been accompanying the damaged vehicle.

The trailer was owned by the Overnite Transport Co., a Cincinnati-based firm.

Two weekend fires doused

Two fires, one resulting in an estimated $500 loss and the other amounting to $200 in reported damages, were doused over the weekend by Washington C.H. firemen.

An automobile fire, reportedly caused by a carburetor backfire, took place at 100 Washington Square at 8:37 p.m. Saturday.

Firemen used water to extinguish the blaze, which caused a reported $500 in damages to the car belonging to James

M. Morrison, 136 McKinley Ave. A metal truck bed, used as a warehouse at 221 S. Hinde Street, incurred $200 in estimated damages as a result of a 3:42 p.m. fire in the structure.

Firemen extinguished the blaze with water, and they reported that the cause of the fire is undetermined at present, although the nature of the fire ignition was suspicious.

Estrogen, cancer link possible

WASHINGTON (AP) — A 12-year study of women who have taken estrogen pills has concluded that the hormone does not prevent breast cancer in menopausal women and may even cause the disease.

The results of the study "do not by themselves" prove a cause and effect relationship between the drug and cancer, but they do suggest "a definite possibility."

The study was done by the Harvard School of Public Health, the National Cancer Institute and the University of Louisville (Ky.) School of Medicine.

A report on its results is to be published by the New England Journal of Medicine on Thursday, but the Washington Post obtained a copy and published the findings in its Monday editions.

The report is based on followups of 1,891 women for an average of 12 years after they began taking estrogen.

American doctors have been prescribing estrogen for about 5 to 6 million middle-aged women to ease the pains of menopause. About 10 million younger women take estrogen in the form of birth-control pills.

Breast cancer will be detected in 89,000 American women and will cause 33,000 others to die this year, the American Cancer Society estimates.

The study turned up no reliable correlation between the length of time estrogen was used and the risk of breast cancer.

No injuries reported

Seven weekend mishaps checked

In seven accidents occurring over the weekend, no injuries were reported by area law enforcement agencies, and damage was moderate in most cases.

POLICE

SUNDAY, 1:49 p.m. - Cars driven by Andrew Kozarian, 51, of Dusquesne, Pa., and George R. Kimball, 53, of 1136 Campbell St., were Eastbound on Court Street. Kimball stopped for a traffic signal at the Fayette Street intersection, and was reportedly struck in the rear by Kozarian's car.

There was moderate damage to Kozarian's car, while the other received slight damage. Kozarian was charged with failure to maintain an assured clear distance ahead.

12:03 p.m. - Pulling from a parking space on the Calmar Industries parking lot, a car driven by Diana S. Reisinger, 25, of New Holland, reportedly struck the opened door of a parked car belonging to Sherry A. Wolfe, 26, of Circleville. There was slight damage to the Wolfe car.

1:08 a.m. - Billy J. Vinion, 722 Peabody Ave., told police officers that his car was stolen from Chick N Bills Tavern. The car was later located just beyond the 400 block of Gregg Street, where it had struck a parked car belonging to Jeffrey Harper, New Holland. Both cars were severely damaged, and the driver of the Vinion vehicle had fled on foot, police officers stated.

SATURDAY, 4:46 p.m. - Backing from a diagonal parking space in the city parking lot on S. Fayette Street, a car driven by Lucy M. McElwan, 88, of Greenfield, reportedly struck a parked car belonging to Ronald Overstake, Jamison Road. The cars were slightly damaged.

10:56 a.m. - In the process of leaving a parking space on W. Market Street, a car driven by Robert E. Bishop, 71, of 3218 Yeoman Road, collided with a car proceeding west on W. Market Street.

The second car was driven by Vernon H. Jenkins, 51, of Johnson City, Tenn., both cars were slightly damaged, and the accident took place just east of Hinde Street.

SHERIFF

SATURDAY, 10:00 a.m. - Traveling north on CCC Highway-E, a car driven by Elizabeth B. McEwen, 26, of Hillsboro, went off the left side of the road, damaging eight rods of fence belonging to Edwin C. McCoy, 4395 CCC Highway-E. The accident which occurred about three and a half miles north of Washington C.H., caused moderate damage to the car.

9:45 a.m. - Mary E. Hardin, 48, of Sabina, told sheriff's deputies that while her car was parked on the Soho Stop 35 parking lot, a hitskip vehicle struck and slightly damaged her vehicle.

First Lady says she can't lose

NEW YORK (AP) — First Lady Betty Ford says she can't lose.

She will be a winner, she says, whether or not her husband wins the GOP presidential nomination in Kansas City, Mo., and whether or not he beats Jimmy Carter in November to return to the White House.

"If Jerry gets the nomination, then I win as a citizen of this country because, in my opinion, he is the most experienced and qualified man for the job."

"If he doesn't get the nomination, or if he gets it and should lose the presidency to Jimmy Carter, then I win as a wife, because after the campaign he will retire from active politics."
